

Wearing Memories Launch

It was an afternoon for the “champagne sisters”, headed by Wearing Memories jewellery designer Kiron Barui, who delighted the stylish crowd sipping Ruinart bubbles at La Vie with quotes about her favourite tippie. “The definition of happiness as a sound is the popping of a champagne cork,” she told a captive audience at the launch of her jewellery collection in Crown Perth’s chic champagne enclave. They had dressed up in afternoon glam with lace, florals and towering heels. Kiron’s passion for champagne has extended to the creation of a jewellery line fashioned from champagne caps and the memories they made, not to mention her formidable sabrage skill which she showed off on the day, wielding a sabre to slice the top off a bottle of bubbles in ceremonial French tradition. Who went? Denise Cheir, Lara McVeigh, Paige Barnaba, Carmel Leaker, Kellie Higgins, Kate O’Hara, Kristi Ullrich, Chaise McHenry, Tia Brazier and Patti Chong, who strutted in wearing a risque hot red Helmut Lang number. PICTURES JOHN KOH
